

Tenure-Track Assistant Professor

The Department of Architecture at Texas A&M University invites applications for tenure-track Assistant Professors in any of the following areas:

Architecture Design
Architecture Structural Systems Technology
Architecture History and Theory
Architecture and Health

The Department seeks specialists who will teach Architecture Design and/or Lecture/Seminar courses focused on the specialties listed. These full-time faculty positions are being considered for fall semester 2019. Teaching opportunities are available for undergraduate and graduate levels. All positions have responsibilities that include mentoring of masters' final studies, masters' thesis and doctoral dissertations. The Department is committed to design inquiry as central to its mission to support the architectural profession. Successful candidates will be expected to maintain an active creative or scholarly agenda.

Texas A&M is a Tier 1 research university with strong emphasis in both teaching and research. The Department of Architecture offers both undergraduate (B.E.D.) and graduate degrees (M. Arch, M.S. and Ph.D.) Further information about the Department of Architecture is available at <http://dept.arch.tamu.edu/>

Candidates are expected to have professional design experience and/or demonstrate an established body of nationally recognized peer-reviewed scholarship, research, and built or creative work appropriate to their field of expertise. Candidates must have a terminal degree in architecture or related field with teaching experience. Salary is commensurate with experience and qualifications for all candidates.

Interested individuals should send digitally a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and a portfolio consisting of professional, teaching, research, and creative work to archfacultysearch@arch.tamu.edu. Three letters of recommendation are to be mailed directly to: Architecture Faculty Search Committee, Attn: Melinda Randle, Department of Architecture, M.S. 3137, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas, 77843-3137, or emailed to archfacultysearch@arch.tamu.edu.

Application deadline: 10 December 2018. Review of applications will continue until positions are filled. The Department of Architecture is committed to diversity in its students, faculty and its curriculum. All applicants are welcome to apply and are due every consideration in our efforts to bring the very best educational experience to our students.

Texas A&M University is an affirmative action/equal opportunity Employer committed to diversity.